We were honored to have as a recent visitor to the Conway AGS office Mr. Lewis E. Neff of Tulsa, retired attorney and past Governor-General of The Society of Mayflower Descendants.

The Society of Mayflower Descendants is composed of people who have a proven line of descent from any of the passengers who came over on the Mayflower in 1620. There is a state organization in every state of the union including Arkansas.

Mr. Neff is going to England in April and will spend three months investigating various records there.

FROM THE MAILBOX

The Hare article on page 47 of your Vol. III, No.2, Fall 1964 issue is most interesting; however, I ask that you kindly make one correction about Moses Hare who died in 1793 in Gates Co., North Carolina.

Moses Hare, died in Gates Co. N.C., 1793, is my direct ancestor. He was a Revolutionary War patriot, and his wife was Honore Speight, daughter of Wm. Speight, descendant of Francis Speight born England 1614, who came to Virginia in 1635 on the "Thomas and John". Moses Hare and Honore Speight were married 1734/35 and their children were: Moses, Joseph, John, Elisha Hare and Bridget Small.

The Honour Ashburn shown on p. 47 as wife of Moses Hare did marry a Moses Hare but not until March 6, 1793, according to Gates Co. marriage records, and therefore could not have been the mother of the above heirs of Moses and Honore Speight Hare--their youngest son, Elisha Hare having married Easter Norfleet on Dec. 23, 1790, in Chowan Co. N.C. almost three years before Honour Ashburn's marriage.

It is so easy to skip generations in families sufficiently long-lived to have, bearing the same Christian name, a Senior, Junior and the Third, which is evidently true of the Hare family in Albemarle section of N.C. Consequently one must bear in mind that when Moses Hare, Sr. died in 1765 leaving widow, Mary, their son Moses, Jr. immediately became Moses Hare, Sr. and that when Moses Hare, Sr. died in 1793, his son Moses, Jr. immediately became Moses, Sr. without benefit of the designation that he was the third man in Gates Co. to bear the name Moses Hare, Sr.

I will thank you to help with this correction and to let interested persons know that I welcome correspondence on these lines: Hare, Speight, Norfleet, Riddick and others from the Albermarle section of No. Carolina and Virginia.

I have three volumes of "Our Islands and Their Peoples" published in 1899, containing recorded data by Major-General Joseph Wheeler, U.S. Army under Comm. Wm. Rufus Shafter in Cuba, and fighting with unnamed American Soldiers. The photography makes the men's features as clear as if snapped yesterday. Any who had relatives who fought these campaigns would surely love to find familiar faces. If interested parties would send me the names, dates, rank, companies, etc. to which their family members were attached I may be able to begin a story of interest to many.

HISTORY OF JOHNSVILLE, ARKANSAS (BRADLEY COUNTY)

TO: Arkansas Genealogical Society

A group of us in this part of the state have formed our own genealogical society and have named ourselves The South Arkansas Genealogical Society. We don't have a publication. We merely pool our "dues" to buy microfilm, books, and various genealogical materials.

One of our members, Mr. Otis Walker, Route 2, Camden, Arkansas, has some ancestors who were affiliated with the Palestine Methodist Church, Johnsville, which is about 20 miles south of Warren, in Bradley County. He obtained a copy of their church roll to make a copy for himself. I requested that he make a copy for the state publication and he obliged by giving me the attached material. In case any of our members should want to write him, the three families in his name are Martin, Temple and McClain.

All members of the Arkansas Genealogical Society should be on the lookout for material for our publication. If the rest of us will help you it will make your task easier and our publication more representative of the entire state. I know you want that because you have published the two items I've sent you in the past.

J. Floyd Bullock
521 Chestnut St., SW Camden, Arkansas

(We are indeed pleased with Mr. Otis Walker's contribution to our publication and with Mr. Bullock's interest in obtaining the material for us. We are printing on the following pages portions of a letter pertaining to early families in that area and portions of the early church records of the Johnsville Palestine Methodist Church. -- DM, Editor)

The following letter was written by the late W. T. Martin, then Counselor and Attorney-at-Law in Camden, Arkansas. It was printed in the Democrat News (Warren, Ark.) October 7, 1915, and reprinted in the Eagle Democrat (Warren) December 24, 1946. It was written to Mr. G. M. Hampton of Fordyce, Arkansas.

Dear George,

James Meek told me that there was going to be an old settler's meeting at Johnsville next Sunday and . . . services would be held in the Presbyterian church and asked me to tell what I knew of the history of Johnsville and the people who settled in that country before the war; in fact to tell as far as I know the country and its history, that perhaps it may be of some interest as well as information to the younger generation.

On the 20th day of September, 1856, my father, Jas. Saddler Martin, arrived from the State of Mississippi, crossed the Saline River at Moor's Mill, Bradley County, and passed Col. John R. Hampton's place and stopped at Henry S. Rawls, who settled on the river hills two miles above Col. Hampton's. In a few days my father moved to the Boyd place, a mile from Col. Hampton's.

In that early day there were quite a number of people who had recently come into the country, had settled in the woods and cleared land and built houses and Negro quarters. Charlie Moore, Jas. I. Robinson and Mat Stuart bought a sawmill and began operating it on the Saline River about 1850 at the Jack Fogle place. It was a lively place in those days and was the only place where people could go to learn the general news of the country and congregate socially. The nearest store was at Longview, then miles up the river, where Phil Derden did a general merchandise business, which was my father's trading point.

Dr. Cabeen, father-in-law of Col. Hampton, lived about two miles west of Longview at the foot of the big hills west of the river. He moved there in the Thirties from near Monroe, La. and his other son-in-law, Sam T. W. Meek, lived on the west bank of the Saline River one mile south of Longview.

Jno. G. Martin, an uncle of mine, lived on the hills close to Dr. Cabeen, and old man Jim York lived on the hills about half a mile west of Johnsville. In the early Forties he left Alabama and started to move to Texas and got as far as Dr. Cabeen's when the Llages and Ouachita River overflowed and he could go no further. Dr. Cabeen took him about the country and showed him the land where he settled and afterwards he cleared a field about half mile east of his house. Afterwards his son-in-law, George, lived there and another son-in-law Brunson settled about a mile southeast where the first Methodist church in that country was built. Afterwards the place was sold to a man named Hoviss. A man named Rix sold his place to Sam McClain, who moved from Mississippi in 1858 and settled there, and he sold to a man named Walpole in 1873.

John Gillis was another early settler. He came from Alabama in the Thirties and settled on the Saline River just above where Col. Hampton's gin-house used to stand and married one of Jack Fogle's sisters. My father settled half mile northwest of Col. Hampton in 1857. Isiah Lanzdale had settled some time in the Forties on the river hills about a mile southeast of where the Methodist Church now stands. Johnson Runnels lived on the big road three miles south of Johnsville. Mat Stuart lived on Improvement Creek one half mile south of Col. Hampton's. He sold the place to Col. Hampton, who afterwards gave it to Mrs. Sue Newton, his daughter, who had married a Dr. Wiley Newton of Union County.

Jack and Pete Fogle lived on Saline River near Moor's Mill, and Fog Fogle lived a mile west. He married a widow, Lacature. Jas. I. Robinson lived on the Saline River two miles south. Another one of the Fogle brothers named Bat died at Henry S. Rawls' in 1859. Jas. I. Robinson had a brother Eli who died after the war. Dr. Miller lived at Longview and in after years went blind and died on the Rawls place in 1867. A man named Hunnicut had settled on the west side of Improvement Creek about a mile west of Col. Hampton's.

Mrs. Cook and her sons-in-law, Isaiah Slator and Grumbles, lived on Snake Creek not far west of the river. Grumbles afterwards moved to Branchville in Drew County. Lock Stuart, Jas. Thompson, Wallace Cabeen and Dr. Brandon lived further up the Creek. Mortimer Martin lived still further up the creek on the place in after years known as Deab Johnson's place. Jas. Gill lived four or five miles further north. Nelson B. York lived about a mile west of his father James York. Terrell York had settled six miles west on Half-way Creek. John Scarbrough lived on Dr. Jackson's place about a mile north of Johnsville.

Two men named Love and Boyd lived on the river hills about a mile southeast of Johnsville. The big road used to run by the Boyd place from Moro to Longview and went by Dr. Cabeen's. Dave Jones and Mason B. Lowrey, who were brothers-in-law, lived about two and a half miles northwest of Johnsville. Mason B. Lowery lived about one mile north of the Smyrna Baptist Church. He sold his place to a man named Irwin, and then settled at the edge of the bottom two miles southeast of Johnsville, where he lived during the war.

A man named Walls lived about a mile east of Smyrna Church. Uncle Mortimer Martin bought Heathington's place and ran a tan-yard there during the war. Stuarts, Atkins, Castleberrys, Dubrons and Forrests lived two or three miles north on the river hills. One of Walls daughters married a Carcuff who lived in on the river. His place now goes by the name of Carcuff's Landing.

Dunk Pippins owned and operated a warehouse on Saline River about four miles south of Moor's Mill where the Rock Island railroad crossed the river. He used to operate a ferry, where my father in crossing on his ferry boat lost one of the finest horses that was ever in that country. There was a landing on Saline River close to Dr. Cabeen's house, a graveyard close by, and some old vacant houses when we came to the state. Dunk Pippin told my father that he and another raftman were camping there, and the old raftman had a pot of gold which he buried one night near that place and died a few days thereafter. He (Pippin) looked for it but never found it. This gold was buried in the Thirties.

A man named Gerrells lived about two miles south of Johnsville in a big old log house that used to stand over in the field east of the road close to where McKinney's mill stood. After Col. Hampton put up the sawmill, Gerrells built the little white house on the road just south of the mill close to the Methodist Church. Dr. Alpheus Rawls and Stephens Barefield afterwards lived in it. Gerrells died one night at the supper table before me moved in his new house and his widow afterwards married a man named Jerry Radden. Uncle Joe Martin came to this country with my father and settled about a mile north of Henry S. Rawls on the river hills.

These people I have named are about those who lived in this country in the early days when my father moved there from Mississippi in 1856. There were a few French living on the river down in the corner. They were the Acans, Pevetoes, Colers, Laeboffs and Hamiltons. After 1856 people began to move in fast mostly from Mississippi and South Carolina. The Crawfords, Wilfongs, Elisons, Pagans, Chambers, Meeks, Garrisons, Jacksons, Saddlers, Rosses, Kings, Givens, Montgomerys, Ferrells, Thomases, McKerrs, Thompsons, Ruff, Dan and James McClain all came from South Carolina and settled in that country a few years before the war. Sam McClain, the Godfries, Martins, Temples and Rawls were from Miss.

In 1857 John Brady came from Warren and built a store at the cross roads of the Moro and Longview road and the Warren and Moor's Mill road. I was at the home of Uncle Henry Rawls and heard Jno. Brady and some men of the community discussing what they would name the place and it was decided to name it Johnsville for the different Johns in that community, among whom were John R. Hampton, John Cabeen, John Martin and John Brady.

The Presbyterian Church was built in 1858-59 and the Rev. Crawford was the preacher for several years. He moved to Arkadelphia where he died years later. Afterwards the Reverends Kerr, Dixon and Brown filled the pulpit as long as I lived in that county.

The present Palistine Methodist Church was built in 1860. Before it was built there was a log church about twenty steps east. Uncle Joe Martin taught school at this church and I attended this school. Geo. M. and Edward E. Hampton, sons of Col. John R. Hampton and the Rawls boys, Randolph, Jesse and Sing, also attended this school. Uncle Joe Martin taught in 1857, 1858 and until April, 1859, when a hurricane blew a tree on his house, injuring him and his son John. He never recovered but moved to the Gillis place close to where Mr. Alison lived, and died in 1860. Thus passed away one of South Carolina's best lawyers, who had figured prominently in the early history of that state. He is buried in the grave yard at Palistine Church.

I have forgotten who the circuit rider preachers were sent by the Methodist conference. I know there was a preacher sent there in 1859 and 1860 named Marshall, who had a son Lewis. Mrs. Marshall taught school at Davis Jones'.

Mason B. Lowrey was a local preacher of unusual ability and preached often at the Palistine church. James I. Robinson and Henry B. Rawls were also local preachers. When the church was built it was two stories. The upper story was a Masonic Hall. For several years they held their meetings in the old log church before the present church was built. There is an old Masonic chest that used to sit in the middle of the old church that was moved to the new hall when the church was completed.

The Baptists built a church about two miles north of Johnsville on the hill north of the spring on a branch and named it Smyrna. The ruling spirits in that church were Nelson B. York, Sam Meek and Irwin. Their preachers were Rev. Duboise, Rasberry and Denson. These three churches had about the same number of members who attended regularly, and all three were in a flourishing condition.

The people of that county in 1859 built an Academy on the Sol Bronson place two miles southwest of Johnsville and established one of the best schools in the state. They employed a man named Hogue who had been teaching for a number of years at Mt. Holly in Union County. He was a Presbyterian preacher and a Southern man. His wife was from Iowa. He was one of the best educators in this part of the country. He was not long in building up as fine a school as there was in the state. I went to him four years and his moral and intellectual training has lasted me through life.

When the call for volunteers came in 1864 sixteen of the larger boys joined the army. Among them were J. E. Hampton, Mack Pagan, George Hogue, Jim Stuart, Sidney Walls, Jim York, Bob Ramsour, Sam Godfrey and Bom Chambers. Most all of the young men in that country joined too, and they organized the old Gee shop that stood not far from where T. B. Craig's store now stands. If my memory serves me right they elected Buck McKinney captain and Dr. Ross lieutenant. After they had their brown jeans uniforms made, which consisted of round-about coats and trousers with red stripes down the legs, they marched to the Presbyterian church to have services and bid their friends "goodbye" before they left Johnsville.

We younger boys yearned to go. We went back to school but the life was gone. There was a shadow of sadness over the patrons of the school as well as on the brow of the Hogues, for their boy, George, had gone with the other boys. Every morning Mr. Hogue opened school with prayer asking the good Lord to guard and protect the boys at the front. Every now and then news came that some of the boys were dead or wounded. How well I remember the day when the sad news came to Mr. and Mrs. Hogue that their boy George was dead. When the conflict closed only a few of that noble band of young men returned to their desolated homes.

After the war most of the people moved to Texas, while some moved to other parts of Arkansas. Now there are not many of the old timers there; Mack Pagan, L. E. York and Billy Martin are about the only ones left. A great many of the old timers have died and are buried in the three graveyards there. There were only two graves at the Palestine church when we moved there, and none at the Baptist and Presbyterian. One of the graves was a man named Boyd and the other was a man who died at Lock Stuart's place in 1852.

I will quit. I could write a book detailing what I know of that country and its people, so I will close and subscribe myself as one of the old settlers and your life long friend.

W. T. Martin

GREEN - WILLIAMS - GITCHELL - BORRER

My gr-grandfather came to Texas from Conway Co. Ark. The 1860 census states that James and Sarah Green lived in Gonzales Co. Tex. James was born in Ark. and Sarah in Ill. James was 37 in 1860, Sarah was 32. A child, William M., age 18 in 1860, was born in Ark. We think they came to Texas in 1847, as the next child, Fanny, 13 in 1860, was born in Texas.

Sarah's mother was Selia Williams, we think, with one brother we know of, Aaron Williams from Tenn., then Ill., and believed to have come to Ark., then Texas. Selia Williams m. Gitchell (or Kitchell) had one child Sarah. Gitchell died when Sarah was small; Selia remarried Elige Borrer when Sarah was about six years old. Selia and Elige Borrer were supposed to be buried in Arkansas, we think in Conway Co. Selia was b. Mar. 1, 1809; Elige Borrer b. Oct. 6, 1802. Their first child, James Isaac Borrer, was b. Jan. 13, 1829. According to 1860 census Sarah Gitchell Green was b. 1828, but her tombstone says Aug. 10, 1823. James Green was b. Jan. 20, 1823.

I would like to know more about these people when they lived in Ark. and where Selia and Elige Borrer are buried. Also was Selia's first husband Gitchell or Kitchell? And any record of parents of Selia and brother Aaron.
